ADULTS AND SENIORS

With community support, the JCCGW helps senior adults stay healthy, active and engaged. Most importantly, we help them to age in place.

- The JCCGW served approximately 10,000 hot kosher lunches to seniors at six sites in Montgomery and Prince George's Counties.
- Through a generous gift, Sy and Sheila Herman sponsored "The Memoir Project," a program designed to promote documentation of life memories.
- We formed a weekly discussion group where men can meet new friends and discuss topics of interest such as politics, current events and health.
- The Center hosted Holy Cross Hospital's Memory Academy, a program developed at UCLA's Center for Aging that helps participants acquire general strategies to improve their memory.
- The JCCGW and Jewish Social Service Agency (JSSA) partnered to provide social workers at many Center programs for seniors who are going through difficult transitions, or who need resource information and support services.
- Seniors took classes on subjects as diverse as beginning computer and opera to creative writing and Israeli current events at the Adult Center for Education (ACE) seminars in the spring and in the fall.
- Hundreds of seniors participated in a variety of social and educational events through the Coming of Age (CoA) program. Funded in part by a grant from the State of Maryland, CoA helps keep seniors connected and promotes good health and well-being. Programs are held at the JCCGW, Ring House and Leisure World. Local excursions, such as trips to restaurants and the theater, are a popular aspect of the program.
- The Hurwitz Internal Light Program, funded in part by the George and Tess Hurwitz Internal Light Fund and the Montgomery County Department of Health & Human Services, offers education and information for older adults who are visually impaired. This endowed program also received generous support from the Aid Association for the Blind in FY12.
- The Center's kosher nutrition program has been named the Selma Sweetbaum Satellite Nutrition

1. Sy and Sheila Herman, dedicated JCCGW supporters and sponsors of "The Memoir Project."

2. Member Toby Gottesman volunteers his time and energy to facilitate the men's discussion group.

3. Volunteer faculty members of the ACE program were honored at an end-of semester party.

4. Coming of Age members modeled current styles at a fashion show held at Ring House.

Hiking the Billy Goat Trail at Great Falls offered a great opportunity for these young professionals, an upcoming generation of community leaders, to network and socialize.

Program in honor of Selma Sweetbaum, who retired after a 35-year career at the JCCGW advocating on behalf of senior adults. Offering hot, healthy kosher lunches as well as lectures, cultural activities, exercise and socialization, the nutrition program is a lifeline for older members of Montgomery County and Prince George's County.

- In our Gateways program for new Americans from the Former Soviet Union, approximately 90 senior adults attended our ESOL (English for Speakers of Other Languages) classes. Twenty-five of them attended citizenship preparation class. Ten of our students took, and passed, the exam to become U.S. citizens.

The Center's kosher nutrition program was named in honor of Selma Sweetbaum (above), who recently retired as JCCGW adult services director. An expert in her field, Selma has received numerous awards and has been appointed to many local and national committees and commissions, including the White House Conference on Aging.

YOUNG PROFESSIONALS

The JCCGW created the Young Professionals Task Force with a mission to foster community by providing a portal for new experiences and connecting local Jewish young professionals to each other and the greater community. Attended by dozens of enthusiastic young professionals, events included:

- Hiking the Billy Goat Trail at Great Falls
- A cooking competition, patterned after the television show "Top Chef," to find out who could add the most creative spin to the popular Israeli dish, shakshuka
- A community service project
- A summer social

BENDER-DOSIK PARENTING CENTER

- Storytime Morning and Music Together Babies are just two of the many popular classes we offer to help build brain development in babies and parenting skills.
- We offered a variety of parenting workshops featuring experts such as Kim West, aka The Sleep Lady; Bonnie Zucker, psychologist and author of Anxiety Free Kids; and Aviva Goldfarb, author and creator of The Six O'clock Scramble. This year, the JCCGW also partnered with PEP (Parent Encouragement Program) to offer parenting seminars at the Center.

Music Together, an internationally-recognized early childhood music and movement program for children and the grownups who love them, is just one of the many popular classes offered by the Bender-Dosik Parenting Center.

CAMP, YOUTH & TEENS

- JCC campers had an “Excellent Adventure through Time” in summer 2011. The summer was jam-packed with fun and meaningful activities, and enrollment increased over 13% from the previous summer.
- The JCCGW received a grant from JCC Association to sponsor the “Power of Words” project, which was on exhibit in the Goldman Art Gallery. The project encouraged campers to use creative and artistic ways to show how words can be helpful or harmful to others.
- Our revamped after-school program allows parents flexibility in choosing the days to enroll their children, as well as flexibility for the children to choose electives and create a personalized experience. Enrollment in the program increased by 20% this year.
- Rockville Open House (ROH) meets monthly in the Teen Center. ROH is a supervised, safe gathering space for lesbian, gay, bi-sexual, transgender, queer, questioning, or intersex Jewish teens.

EARLY CHILDHOOD EDUCATION

The JCCGW preschool utilizes a Reggio Emilia approach to education, a program based on the principles of respect, responsibility, and community through exploration and discovery in a supportive and enriching environment.

- In March 2012, six members of the preschool staff attended Study Institute at the Malaguzzi Center in Reggio Emilia, Italy to learn about the Reggio approach in greater depth and explore Reggio through a Jewish perspective.
- The tour was underwritten through the JCCGW and the preschool’s Early Childhood Parent Committee (ECPC). Funds were raised in part through ECPC events.

1-2. Camp JCC campers are fortunate to have the use of indoor facilities—such as the gym, art studio and auditorium—as well as outdoor facilities, including the pool, ball field and grounds.

3. On Grandparents Day, always a highlight of the year, this JCCGW Preschool student dressed to impress.

GILDENHORN/SPEISMAN CENTER FOR THE ARTS

The family of Debra Herman Berger^{†1} posed proudly at the reception of the exhibit of her artwork.

JCCGW Dance School offers classes for all ages and across many disciplines, including tap, jazz, ballet and hip-hop.

- Approximately 75 students, including children and adults, took music lessons at the JCCGW. We also offered music classes in partnership with a local music school, Bach to Rock.
- The indie rock/Sephardic music band Deleon performed in May in conjunction with the DCJCC's Washington Jewish Music Festival.

Kreeger Auditorium Renovation

The Center has started a major renovation on the Kreeger Auditorium. We gratefully thank the Goldenhorn/Speisman families and the Philip L. Graham Fund for their generous support and the State of Maryland for issuing a Bond Bill. The renovation will modernize our facilities to make them more accessible to all, improve energy efficiency and costs, and enhance audience enjoyment. Once completed, our theater will be a state-of-the-art, community performing arts destination.

INCLUSION AND SPECIAL NEEDS

- More than 60 children with special needs were able to attend camp alongside their typically-developing siblings and peers. Funding for this program is provided by generous support from the Stanley S. Bender Special Needs Inclusion Program at Camp JCC, The Jewish Federation of Greater Washington, National Inclusion Project, and the Montgomery County Department of Health & Human Services.

Literary Arts

- The 42nd Annual Book Festival took place in November and featured a handpicked selection of more than 5,000 newly-published books of Jewish content and 26 author events.
- Literary programs continued throughout the program year featuring sportswriter John Feinstein, blogger and author Jill Smokler, and Ambassador Stuart E. Eizenstat.

Music

- The Polinger Artists of Excellence Concert Series celebrated its 40th anniversary season featuring six chamber concerts. In recognition of this milestone, Gerry and Howard^z Polinger and the Polinger family were honored at a special concert in April which featured pianist Navah Perlman (Itzhak Perlman's daughter) and her fellow musicians, cellist Zuill Bailey and violinist Philippe Quint.

1. The Honorable Stuart E. Eizenstat visited the Center to discuss his book, "The Future of the Jews."

2. The Polinger family was honored in appreciation of their vision in creating the Polinger Artists of Excellence Concert Series and for their longstanding support of JCCGW music programs. Gerry Polinger, seated, posed for a photo with musicians (from left) Phillippe Quint, Zuill Bailey and Navah Perlman.

3. Inclusion counselors provide support for campers with special needs to participate in all camp activities alongside their typical peers and siblings.

The Team JCCGW delegation of 61 teens proudly marched in the opening ceremony of the 2011 JCC Maccabi Games in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. Much more than an athletic competition, the Games promote community service involvement, sportsmanship and religious pride, and provide the opportunity for Jewish teens to form long-lasting memories and friendships.

A Gudelsky Exceptional Swim Program student and her volunteer coach celebrate success. The students enjoy the opportunity to move in the forgiving environment of water. For the families, the program offers a supportive network to socialize and share information.

- The Annette M. and Theodore N. Lerner Family Foundation sponsored our 2011 Camp Kochavim, a program for teens and young adults with a wide range of disabilities. Twenty-nine older teens and young adults with special needs participated in the program. Children's Charities Foundation, the Abraham and Frieda Hochberg Foundation, and the Estelle Friedman Gervis Family Foundation also helped support Camp Kochavim.
- Twenty-six participants and 24 volunteers took part in the Gudelsky Exceptional Swim Program for children and adults with physical, orthopedic-related disabilities. This program is funded by a grant from the Bertha and Isadore Gudelsky Family Foundation.
- In observance of Jewish Disability Awareness Month in February 2012, all three area JCCs partnered to present "ReelAbilities: Disabilities Film Festival." Each film was accompanied by discussions and programming to bring the community together to explore and celebrate our diversity.

JCC MACCABI GAMES

- In summer 2011, Team Greater Washington traveled to Israel; Springfield, MA; and Philadelphia, PA to participate in the JCC Maccabi Games where Jewish teens between the ages of 13 and 16 competed in Olympics-style events. We thank the Bender Foundation and Rockville SportsPlex for their generous support of the 2011 JCC Maccabi Games.
- In May 2012, JCCGW athletes age 10-12 traveled to Harrisburg, PA to participate in the Mid-Atlantic Junior Games. They also participated in Jewish Heritage Night, which was sponsored by the Partnership for Jewish Life and Learning and the Washington Wizards, at the Verizon Center in April.

Hundreds of community members gathered for a day of spirited celebration including a performance by Danny Sanderson, one of the most influential performers on the Israeli cultural scene.

- The JCCGW and Shady Grove Adventist Hospital cosponsored two Health Expos—one for families held at the JCCGW in the fall, and one for seniors held at Leisure World in the spring. The expos served to increase awareness of health care resources in our community, provide preventative care information, and screen for certain conditions.

Endowments

The JCCGW has more than 200 named endowment funds. Income generated by these funds helps underwrite the costs associated with a wide range of classes, lectures and workshops, cultural arts, scholarships for camp and preschool, and meals for members of our community. Establishing an endowment fund is a wonderful way to honor the memory of a loved one, or to serve as a living tribute. A complete list can be found on pages 14-16.

Annual Fund

The Board Development Committee, led by Vice President for Development Mindy Berger, helped us keep our doors open to welcome everyone. Each year, Annual Fund donations make it possible for us to offer more than $500,000 in financial assistance and support services to hundreds of children, adults and senior adults in our community in the form of:

- Scholarships to families in need
- One-on-one camp counselors for children and young adults with special needs
- Reduced-rate memberships for adults with disabilities living in group homes
- Support services for senior adults

Create a Jewish Legacy Planned Gifts

The new Create a Jewish Legacy program is chaired by Neil Gurvitch and the Board's Create a Jewish Legacy Committee. Create a Jewish Legacy is an innovative program designed to change the philanthropic conversation in our community by creating a collaborative approach to legacy giving. A project of the United Jewish Endowment Fund of The Jewish Federation of Greater Washington, Create a Jewish Legacy aims to build a strong, vibrant community for generations to come.

Flora M. Stetson Legacy Society

Flora M. Stetson's love of the arts led her to volunteer at the JCCGW's Goldman Art Gallery. Ms. Stetson's passion for her volunteer work at the Center, and her joy in being part of the Center's warm and welcoming community, led her to make a generous legacy gift that will continue to have an impact for generations to come.

The Stetson Society recognizes and honors individuals and families who, through their estate plans, have created a legacy for the Center in the form of a bequest or other planned gift.

The generosity of Flora M. Stetson⁷¹ will have a profound and lasting impact on our community.

Endowments

Endowments support the Center today, and help strengthen our community into the future. Many donors establish endowment funds to honor the memory of a loved one; others choose to establish an endowment during their lifetime so they can see the results of their generosity.

The JCCGW currently has more than 200 named endowment funds. Income generated by these funds helps underwrite the costs associated with a wide range of programs, including classes, lectures and workshops, cultural arts events, scholarships for camp and preschool, and a kosher meal program for senior adults.
